Could Saudi Arabia become part of the global battery industry?

Saudi Arabia is a step closer to becoming part of the global battery industry after deals to develop lithium processing and anode material projects in the country. The deals could make Saudi Arabia's lithium ion supply chain the most developed in the Middle East, which right now has virtually no battery material capacity.

Will Saudi Arabia develop a lithium pipeline in 2021?

In 2021, Saudi Arabia became the first Middle Eastern country to establish pipeline capacity in lithium processing by signing an agreement with EV Metals Groups to build a battery chemicals complex in Yanbu Industrial City. The site could produce 18,050 tonnes of lithium hydroxide by 2030, according to Benchmark's Lithium Forecast.

Will European lithium build a spodumene refinery in Saudi Arabia?

This month Australian startup European Lithium and Saudi Arabia's Obeikan Investment Group announced an agreement to create a joint venture to build and operate a lithium hydroxide refinery in Saudi Arabia. European Lithium said the Saudi processing plant will process spodumene from a mine that the company is developing in Wolfsberg, Austria.

Will Saudi Arabia build a lithium hydroxide refinery?

Lithium processing This month Australian startup European Lithium and Saudi Arabia's Obeikan Investment Group announced an agreement to create a joint venture to build and operate a lithium hydroxide refinery in Saudi Arabia.

Does Saudi Arabia want an electric vehicle supply chain?

Saudi Arabia's ambitions for an electric vehicle supply chain are part of its push to diversify the national economy away from oil, a project guided by the government's Vision 2030 reform plan announced in 2016.

What EVs are being made in Saudi Arabia?

The same year saw the launch of the first Saudi EV brand Ceer, another beneficiary of the government's sovereign wealth fund. This month Saudi Arabia also signed a $5.6 billion deal with Chinese EV producer Human Horizons for a joint venture focusing on research and development of automobiles.
