Low-frequency inverters use high-speed switches to invert (or change) the DC to AC, but drive these switches at the same frequency as the AC sine wave which is 60 Hz (60 times per second). This requires the inverter's transformer to work a bit harder, plus demands it to be larger and heavier, thus the result is a bigger, beefier package.

The main characteristics of high frequency (HF) inverters are: Lower price, smaller size, less heavy, slightly higher efficiency; They are not the best option for inductive loads (water pumps, air conditioning, refrigerators) ...
